And as to the sandy, old place in which you found them, that just is the very best kind of soil to find them in. They could not live in the heavy, rich soil of our gardens. This flower is a sister to the Huckleberry, the Cranberry, the Checkerberry; it has, too, some aristocratic sisters in the Rhodora, the Azalea, the Laurel. All flower children belong to the TRAILING ARBUTUS May Flower). HEATH FAMILY. The Heaths are 1. Monopetalous. 2. They are distinguished generally by the anthers opening by a little pore or hole at the top of each cell. 3. They are twice as many, or just as many stamens as petals Now let us examine this little flower. Notice this pretty, tube-shaped corolla, divided at the top, so...
