Excerpt from The Belgian Galleries: Being a History of the Flemish School of Painting, Illuminated and Demonstrated by Critical Descriptions of the Great Paintings in Bruges, Antwerp, Ghent, Brussels and Other Belgian Cities In the following pages, I have endeavoured to give a concise description of the works of art in the Belgian galleries as well as some of the most famous masterpieces to be found in cathedrals, churches and other religious foundations. The visitor to the galleries of Antwerp, Brussels and Bruges will immediately notice that the great majority of the pictures are by native artists, only a few foreign works, principally by Italian and French masters, being met with. Dutch pictures, of course, are found in considerable numbers; but the Dutch School is so closely allied with the Flemish that it is difficult to distinguish them till the time of Rubens. Even the Little Masters of Belgium and Holland closely resemble one another in character, especially the painters of genre and still-life. Sir Joshua Reynolds thought it more reasonable to class the pictures according to their size rather than the birthplaces of the artists, the style and manner of many of the Dutch and Flemish painters being identical.
